Serving Wales' Farmers

NOW you can spread fertilizer accurately

- In the right place
- At the right time
- For the right price

Spreading fertiliser straight after cutting (when grass really needs it) is a very "hit & miss" affair, given the combination of short grass stubble and a confused lattice work of tractor wheelings covering the field.

The Foam Align blob marker allows the tractor driver to see where his last bout line was, by automatically dropping large blobs of foam under the tractor. These are used as a guide on the return bout. The ability to spread accurately eliminates the risk of ugly striping and ensures proper distribution of fertiliser.
